MOORE FORCES TO UNITE AT MASS MEETING TONIGHT IN UNION HI AT 8 O'CLOCK

Overwhelming Vote for Candidate Is Indicated in Glendale as Johnson Adherents Become Disappointed With Sidestepping of Candidate

STRAW VOTES SHOW WAY TO CAST BALLOTS

State-wide Alignment for C. C. Moore Indicated by Operations of Gamblers Who Are Placing Heavy Wagers Against the Renomination of Johnson

The call for alignment of all loyal Republicans back of the candidacy of Charles C. Moore ranges through Glendale today, summoning all to the Union high school tonight, for the last big rally and show of forces that have determined their direction and the direction of the state of California in congress.

Earlier, until the arrival of Hiram Johnson in Glendale, and the delivery of his evasive speech in the avoidance of any report to his constituents of his stewardship, there had been a suspension of judgment. The time is over.

Mr. Johnson has through all his speeches failed to answer to even his supporters.

The last big, grand rally for Charles C. Moore, with his former, manager, Marshall Stimson, will crux the situation in Glendale, already reflected throughout the state.

As a sign of the sentiment of turn to Moore, general throughout Glendale, straw ballots taken during the week are more than gratifying to his followers.

Walt N. Nicoles, in making 14 consecutive calls along one street, last night, found 14 votes for Moore and none for Johnson.

Similar experiences were reported Thursday.

The reports on the candidates from Long Beach, Pasadena and other parts to the county show the overwhelming vote awaiting to be cast.

The last unanswered question placed before Mr. Moore in an effort to catch him in evasion or sidestepping of any issue, was that concerning the Boulder dam project. He issued a cleancut statement. Previous to being queried, Mr. Moore had thought that his attitude on the vital question was thoroughly understood, but when he learned that such was not the case he issued the following answer to his interrogators:

"I am amazed at your suggestion that there is doubt and misunderstanding anywhere regarding my attitude on the Boulder dam project, as I have frequently, both in public and private, expressed my interest in this great enterprise which, as an engineer, appeals to me very strongly.

"I have such confidence in Secretary Hoover that I am sure any plan which is so drawn that it meets with his approval will be sound in its engineering and financial policy, and will equitably distribute the costs and advantages to be derived from this great work."

Reflection of the sentiment throughout the state is seen in reports of the gambling operations on the chance of election.

Gamblers, who don't care one whoop whether Joe Doakes or Joe Buch is United States senator, just so they are left in peace to ply their trade of outguessing the other fellow, have indicated the way the senatorial nomination fight will go on August 29.

Odds quoted yesterday show that, despite all the bluster of the pre-Johnson forces, Charles C. Moore is better than an even money bet to carry Southern California by 30,000 votes. On this phase of the election Moore money is going begging, as is the offer of evens that Moore will carry every county in the southern tier.

Evidently the "betting editor" of a local paper has forgotten some of his figures. A few days ago he published the astounding and dream-like odds on ten to one, with Johnson favorite over Moore to win the nomination. Now he declares the odds have switched, the price on Moore going from the prevailing two to one, to three to one, with Johnson favorite, to carry the state.

The gamblers don't care who wins. All they are looking for is the best of it. They are all carrying around copies of the official figures on the Booth-Johnson contest of 1916, the only republican senatorial primary Johnson has been in, except the present one, studying the "dope," and sending out the impression that Johnson is a "cinch." After Mr. Sucker imbibes this encouragement to bet, he will be accommodated—but with the sharpshooters taking the Moore end of it.

KIWANIS HEARS FROM JUDGE WILDE

Tells Club Need of Considering Candidate Before Voting

Judge L. C. Wilde, of the Los Angeles juvenile court, was the speaker at the Kiwanis club luncheon yesterday, at the Broadway inn.

Judge Wilde gave his hearers an insight into the workings of one of the most important offices in the gift of the people. He prefaced his splendid talk by saying: "We give a great deal of attention and forethought to raising prize hogs, horses and corn, but seldom ever give the least consideration to what our children will be in generations to come. It is just as necessary to plan the future of the child as it is to see to it that we get the best stock for our material products.

"The juvenile problem is the hardest one the courts have to deal with. There has been a complete change in handling criminal cases during the last few years. We treat the child as a victim of society now instead of a criminal when he is brought into court. Juvenile problems are now being treated as social problems, and we must begin at the root of the trouble, if we are to eradicate or minimize crime," said Judge Wilde.

"About 2 percent of our population is criminally inclined. The majority of criminals are under 25 years of age, and you seldom see an old man sent to the penitentiary these days. Crime is on the increase. The penitentiaries of California have 532 more criminals within their walls this year than they had last year. The penalty seems to have little to do with minimizing crime. Heredity and environment have a great deal to do with crime. We should be awake to the fact that we are responsible in a large measure for the tendencies of our children, and give posterity clean lives and good bodies which will have much to do in bringing about a change in the social conditions which breed crime.

"The boys who are brought into my court know nothing of the Golden Rule or the square deal. They lack the home training. We are endeavoring to treat the boy who is mentally deficient in a manner that will give him the best chance. We should teach him to do one thing (if that is all he can learn) and to do it right. But we must have more schools, more probation officers and more money before we can accomplish the most good."

FRENCH CRUISER SINKS

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Striking a rock in Quiberon bay, off St. Nazaire, at 1 a. m. today, the cruiser France sank slowly and at 4 a. m. capsized and plunged to the bottom. Of the crew of 900 all were saved except three stokers, who are missing.

Short Weight Has Aroused Mr. James to Utter a Protest

Recently an ice man put 72 pounds of ice in a box where 100 pounds should have gone. It causes Henry James to make the assertion that if everybody were honest this would be a much nicer world in which to live. Why Mr. James had to pick out the iceman to make an example is a mystery. He does, however, refer to oil stock worthless oil stock.

He also speaks of illicit liquor, fiery stuff passing as whiskey, and what he says about it is worth reading.

James W. Foley in "The Listening Post," writes of the "little ford," the one that is at the end of the tongue, ready to pop out, perhaps a hasty or sharp word and one that ought not to be spoken. Read what Mr. Foley advises.

BRINKOP'S RECORD OUTLINED BY HIS SUPPORTERS

Clean Cut Statement of What Candidate Has Done in Past

Here is Captain Walter Brinkop's career as presented by the backers of his candidacy for the republican nomination for state treasurer in a last minute appeal to voters for their support:

Secretary of the board of assessors of St. Louis, president and manager of two Los Angeles manufacturing companies, four years in bond and realty brokerage under his own name, two years as captain of the 364th machine gun company with a Belgian Croix de Guerre as testimonial of his worth in battle, a year and a half helping ex-service men get jobs, government compensation and insurance, two years as an executive of the Mortgage Guarantee company of Los Angeles.

WALTER BRINKOP
Candidate for State Treasurer

Since Captain Brinkop's return from France he has held numerous important offices in the American Legion. He was one of the organizers, and for two terms commander, of Los Angeles Post No. 8, the largest legion post in the west ever since its organization. He severed all official connection with the legion on announcement of his candidacy.

Captain Brinkop is a member of the Military and Naval Affairs committee of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce, of the executive committee of the 91st division association, and holds office in several other organizations.

Captain Brinkop has the endorsement of the young men's republican league, of the young voters' republican league, the backing of organized groups of ex-service men in every city and village of any size in the state, the support of practically all of Southern California's bankers and financiers, the good-will of organized women, the support of more newspapers than either of his opponents.

His nomination, in the opinion of shrewd politicians, is practically assured.

THIEVES ENTER WIXSON HOME

A thief or thieves entered the home of W. E. Wixson, 811 South Columbus avenue, Glendale, Friday night, and stole a gold watch, a ring and $5 in cash. Mr. Wixson in reporting the robbery said that the thief had entered the house through a window, from which he had removed the screen.

Police have been detailed to investigate the robbery. It is believed that the thief who entered the Wixson home is connected with the band that has been operating in Glendale and the Tujunga district for several weeks. Many homes and business houses have been robbed in this district during the past few weeks, and Chief Fraser is making every effort to locate the band responsible.

TRANSPORTATION TIGHTENS

AFRICAN GOLF IS DISCOVERED HERE

A heated game of "African golf," or dice, was spotted Friday afternoon going full blast on one of the streets of the city, and was reported to the police department.

The game was reported by members of the city engineering department, who said that four men were shooting dice on the sidewalk in the 400 block. Lieutenant of Police Joe Griffin went out to investigate the game, but it had broken up before the arrival of the police.

ORGANIZATION PUBLIC SPIRITED CITIZENS

Assert Choice Made on Basis of Impartial Discussion of All Candidates and Policies as Outlined in Speeches of Each of Those Seeking Suffrage

One of the outstanding endorsements which has been received for Governor William D. Stephens by the Stephens for Governor club is that of the Clean Government league of the state. In a communication to the Stephens for Governor club, Walter S. Gates, chairman of the department of public welfare, states:

"After a fair, impartial discussion of all the candidates for governor, the league unanimously endorsed you. This endorsement was made upon your record for the past six years.

"You have done a great deal to really put California upon the map, and I sincerely trust that your next four years as governor of this state will have as good results as they have had for the past six years.

"I have just completed a tour of the east, and find that the people of the east and middle west have a very high regard for California, and especially for some of our advanced progressive legislation.

"Assuring you that I will do all within my power to assist you before the primaries and in the final election this fall, I am."

COMMUNITY BACKS CARRIERS' PICNIC

Merchants Donate Prizes for Today's Big Outing at New Park

The modern letter carrier represents the evolution of the town cryer of olden days. No longer does he cry, but he brings us all the news, the personal letters from our friends, the newspapers which keep us posted on the happenings all over the world, the magazines that make us acquainted with current literature.

The postman therefore becomes a friend with whom we gossip when we chance to meet him at the door or on his beat, and when he has affairs of his own, like the carriers' picnic, everybody is interested.

It is not surprising, therefore, that the merchants of the city have made generous donations to the picnic which the carriers are enjoying this afternoon at the new Glendale-Verdugo park. Following is a list of such gifts:

One gallon of honey from the Blossom Bee company.

One crib blanket, Brand department store.

Canisters of coffee, tea and sugar from Wilson-Bell company.

GLENDALE POST NOT POLITICAL

Takes No Sides in Elections, Commander McBride Declares

"Glendale Post No. 127, American Legion, is not taking sides in any political race, local or national," said Commander James McBride, on Friday night at the meeting of the post. He said that he was making this statement in response to a rumor that had been circulated to the effect that the Glendale post is taking sides in politics.

Commander McBride said: "I want to say once and for all times the American Legion is not in politics. The constitution of our organization does not permit it and as long as I am interpreting the constitution Glendale Post No. 127 will not be identified with either side of a political question.

"We are interested in the passage of the $10,000,000 bond issue, and we have a right to be. It is a measure drafted by Legionaires and intended to benefit Legionnaires. As for any individual office-seeker being supported by this organization, such is not the case."

Lieut. Colonel Herschel Hervey, of the 160th infantry, California National guards, addressed the Legionnaires on the present status of the National guard and the present military policy of the United States.

He said that the United States has adopted a policy of having one big army composed of three units: the regular army, the national guards and the organized reserve corps. The regular army is a comparatively small force and functions as specialists and instructors for the national guard. The national guard is considered as the first line of defense in the event the need should ever be felt for a large army. The organized reserves are considered valuable in view of the fact that they have already functioned as trained soldiers and can be recalled to the service at any time the need for them arises.

Commander McBryde announced the selection of delegates and alternates to the convention at San Jose in September. The delegates are Commander McBryde and Comrades Stephenson, Kelly, Mar, Rowley and Clayton. The alternates are Comrades Nish, Moniot, Mabry, Smith, Guthrie and Wheelon.

Clackenmas Company States Many Love Mistakes

OREGON CITY, Ore., Aug. 25.—Among other unpopular persons known in the Clackamas county courthouse here, Dan Cupid's name leads all the rest. It appears so, one might say, from the divorces filed and granted in the cool courtroom and contingous chambers within the ancient pile of masonry.

Dan is thought well of at Vancouver, Wash., which is a sort of Gretna Green for the marrying folks, but he's the ugly duckling in this place. For the past two and a half years 711 marriages have been solemnized in this city, and 980 divorces have been as solemnly granted.

Since January 1, 1916, exactly 1607 marriage licenses have been handed over the counter at the court house here, and 2070 divorces have been handed down from the bench. So far this year only a few over 150 couples have been married, while over 200 divorce suits have been filed.

MOORE SENTIMENT TO CRYSTALIZE TONIGHT

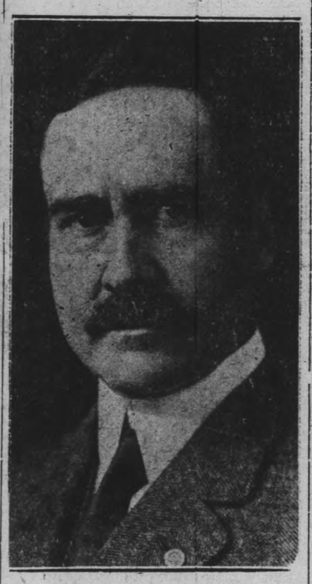
Mass Meeting in Union Hi to Bring Campaign to End

All of the speakers on the program tonight at the High school have come into personal contact with Mr. Moore.



CHARLES C. MOORE

Marshall Stimson worked with him during the exposition at San Francisco, and is thus better capable of realizing the difficulties which were overcome before that great project became a successful reality.

Henry A. James, who is scheduled to give an original monolog, is another acquaintance of Mr. Moore. Mrs. Collins Porter, prominent club woman and welfare worker has much in common with the candidate. She has been an earnest worker in war movements, and all legislation effecting the welfare of women and children.

The big mass meeting at the Glendale union high school, which will show the overwhelming turn from Hiram Johnson to Charles C. Moore, will be staged at 8 o'clock tonight.

Marshall Stimson will be in charge, with a staff of speakers, and an excellent program of music.

Eagle Rock and Burbank Moore men are expected to attend the meeting and align with the forces back of the candidate who stands for California and President Harding's program.

Straw ballots indicate the way the votes are going to be cast throughout the whole district. The meeting tonight will be one of jubiliation.

MAIL THIEF IS CAUGHT NEAR HERE

For alleged thefts from the United States mails and for forging checks, J. L. Greer, 147 South Belmont avenue, was turned over to the Los Angeles county sheriff on Friday.

He was arrested in Lankershim by Detective Sergeants Stein and Royle of the Glendale police department, acting on instructions of Chief John D. Fraser, who had been requested by the federal authorities to arrest Greer.

The prisoner was held over night in the Glendale jail and later turned over to the sheriff to be held until the federal authorities hear the case.

FEDERAL OPERATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Plans for federal operation of the anthracite mines and railroads that fail to function, have been completed by President Harding and his advisors, it was made known today, as the anthracite and railroad strikes appeared hopelessly deadlocked.

BABIES CROWD FORWARD IN CLAIMS TO PLACE IN THE BEST BABY HALL OF FAME

Children of California and Children of the East and Middlewest Claim Supremacy in the Contest for the Big Prizes and Honors

THE GREAT ADVENTURE OF NURSERY FOLKS

Each Little One Is Beautiful in Its Own Distinctive Way, Bringing Added Test to the Judgment of the Arbiters in the Contest

And still they come, the babies, for a place in the hall of fame—the best baby contest, some with beautiful curls shining like spun gold, others with short dusky hair and olive skins inherited it may be from some French ancestor of adventurous turn who sought the new world, or some rover of Spain who had read the tales of treasure troves to be found in far-away lands and followed the cross planted by the Franciscan fathers on these western shores. Then there are the children of the middle west and the eastern ancestry who are the golden hopes of California.

This best baby contest is a great adventure, too, so they are but living up to a natural heritage when they seek the fortune of $100 cash or its equivalent in merchandise, the ring with its sparkling diamond, the crib or the perambulator or the other prizes which may come to them if they are lucky enough to find favor with the judges. It is not a reckless adventure since each contestant will have a precious souvenir in a fine photograph, and will thereafter be identified with the city and have a place in an historic document, which will probably be of even greater interest in years to come than now.

The marvelous thing is that no child duplicates another child or reproduces any ancestor. Each has its own individuality not to be confused with any other. The fathers and mothers will tell you that is half the joy of parenthood—the unexpected always cropping out.

Sometimes people who are not parents have this pleasure; such is the happiness of Miss Anabel Ruprecht of 1847 Gardena, who has been like a mother to her little grand-niece, Mary Josephine Armour, since the child was 6 months old. She is now a brown-haired, dark-eyed lass of three years, perfectly well, weighing 37 pounds and with a wonderfully bright mind. She loves to be read to and when that fails sits down with a book and pretends to read imaginary stories. She also has a little piano on which she practices "scales," talking wisely about music. She is the joy of the house on Gardena street and they grow sick at heart whenever there is any suggestion of losing her to the child's mother, who is compelled to live in Redlands on account of the ill health of another child.

Bonnie Mitchell, 2 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Loren Mitchell of Boynton street, lives up to her name and is just "bonnie," say those who best know the beautiful little girl who is a ray of sunshine on the darkest day. The Mitchells have five children and consider this baby the brightest of the five.

Jack G. Wilbur, who lives at 511 East Palmer and is but three years of age, seems destined to a brilliant future if his present evidences of mentality are a guarantee of what is to come. He is 3 feet, 3 inches tall, is strong and active, and is fairly brilliant in recitation, having a long repertoire of nursery rhymes which he seems never to forget when they have once been told him, having a wonderful memory. He is also good in mathematics, can count to 10 or 12 and do sums in addition like 5 and 5 are ten. He has also learned to identify a great many birds, and is "book crazy," his mother says, always insisting on taking a book to bed with him.

BOY SCOUTS AID CITY BONDS ISSUE

Enlisted by Sec. Rhoades of C. of C. to Distribute Circulars

The boy scouts to the front. Members of the Glendale boy scouts have solved a big problem for Secretary James M. Rhoades of the chamber of commerce, and his assistant, E. F. Sanders. The directors ordered Mr. Rhoades to distribute 5000 handbills in Glendale, explaining the three bond issues to be voted on at the primary election, August 29.

The bills were printed, and the big problem of having them distributed faced Mr. Rhoades. While he was wondering how this task could be accomplished, H. F. Benner, scout executive for the Verdugo Hills district, came to his aid. He offered the assistance of the scouts, which was accepted.

Mr. Rhoades was so appreciative of the assistance that he immediately purchased stock in the Boyhood of America by contributing to the organization.

KFAC ORCHESTRA TO MAKE FIRST APPEARANCE

Radio Artists of Press Newton to Provide Legion Dance Music

Tonight is the big night for radio fans and Glendale residents. The KFAC orchestra is to give its first public dance in the American Legion hall, 610 East Broadway across from the city hall. It will begin at 8 p. m. and continue to midnight.

Many radio fans have called in to obtain directions to the Legion hall. They don't want to miss such an opportunity. The fans are not the only ones. Many Glendale residents have also declared themselves as "positively going to be there."

One lady, who has heard the KFAC orchestra, and who lives in South Pasadena, is going to make the journey to Glendale and the American Legion hall. She states "I have heard the KFAC orchestra so many times by radio and appreciate their music so much, I would not miss the opportunity to meet such a class of musicians."

One radio fan is making the trip from Bicknell, California 200 miles up the coast.

SCREAMS TERRIFY BURGLAR, WHO ESCAPES

Mrs. C. M. Sparr Has Weird Experience With Thief

A woman's screams frightened an intruder from a house that he had entered early Saturday morning with the evident intention of robbing. Mrs. C. M. Sparr, 234 South Jackson street, Glendale, telephoned to the police department at 2:30 Saturday morning, for an officer. Patrol Sergeant Kearns responded, and was told by Mrs. Sparr that she was awakened by a man, who was moving about the room in which she was sleeping. She said that the man had gained an entrance to the room by removing a screen from one of the windows.

AUGUST IS PASSING AND IT WILL BE GONE A WHOLE YEAR, SO JAZZ UP THE CAR

If You've Delayed Your Vacation, Now Is Your Last Chance to Hike to Big Bear Valley, Where There Is a Real Country Club and Scenery

By BERT MARPLE

The month of August will soon be drawing to a close, and within a few days the best month of the touring season of 1922 will be gone forever. Thousands of motorists who have been delaying their vacation trips are beginning to feel that they must "start something." They begin to feel that the cream of this touring season is slipping through their fingers and that, if they are not very careful, they will have postponed their trip until it cannot be taken in comfort.

The fellow who has spent the last ten months grinding in the office needs a vacation—and a good one at that. The close confinement to business naturally wears a fellow down and if he does not take a little playtime from the grind he will regret it. After the busy, hot summer his interest in life seems to be waning, he does not take the keen delight in things that he once did, and does not enthuse to business deals or pleasure events as he should. A few more care lines have been added to his face and he wonders if life is worth while after all.

Some men have gone year in and year out in this unceasing grind, "hoping" that some day they may be able to get away long enough for a free breathing spell. Their nose has been on the stone so continuously, year after year, that they finally give up in despair. They gradually reach the point where they think that maybe everything is all right—that possibly they were brought into this world for nothing else but grind, and that they should be satisfied that they have their little families, and possibly their own homes pair for, and all that.

But when a fellow reaches this point the big things in life are beyond him. He does not have the pep nor the vision to see the big deal, the unusually profitable transaction which alone would more than pay for the summer's outing for the entire family. This goes to the fellow who takes his vacations regularly, thereby having that vim and ambition to throw into his work that naturally "turns things."

The Glendale Daily Press is going to stray this week from the narrow path of "short trips" to give an account of what is possibly the finest outing section of Southern California. Hundreds of the motorists of Glendale have already enjoyed one or more jaunts around the Rim o' the World, which takes in both Little and Big Bear lakes, and some of the most wonderful scenic country to be found within many miles of Glendale. The writer has made three trips to Big Bear and two over the "Rim" and knows there are few jaunts that equal it.

Although the outing season this year is about a month late, due to unusual weather, the campers who are lovers of the great outdoors have, during the past few weeks, been literally flocking to Rim o' the World sections, and indications are that this year's travel to the San Bernardino mountains will exceed that of last year by at least 25 per cent.

Mill creek is the shortest route to Big Bear, being 45 miles from San Bernardino, and, with the road under control, the time required to make the trip is from four to four and a half hours. The Mill creek route is a fascinating, picturesque drive, over a summit of 7800 feet, down through the beautiful Santa Ana valley, up the famous Clark's grade, and over the last ridge of 8000 elevation and down to the lake. This route is not dangerous, but is a pretty hard pull. When its endless panorama is considered it must be acknowledged that the trip is well worth while.

To the outdoor enthusiast whose time is limited, and who wishes to make Big Bear a regular week-end place of rest and recreation, the construction of the Deep creek cut-off into Big Bear means much. This new highway was erected by the people of California voting a bond issue of $105,000, the same to be matched by a donation by the federal government. This new state and federal highway, some 12 miles in length, 22 feet wide and not to exceed 6 per cent in grade, will connect with the Crest route at a junction five miles east of the City creek road summit near Fredelba and will extend through Fish camp, across North Fork creek, and up Bear creek, entering Big Bear valley near the dam. This new road, connecting as it will, with the City creek-Fredelba road, will make a short route of only 27 miles from San Bernardino to the lake, a little over an hour's running time, as against over 45 miles and four hours via the Mill creek road. The federal government has already made the final payment on its appropriation of $186,000 for the Deep creek cut-off project, which means that the road will be started this summer.

The City creek road is the central route to either Little Bear, which is now known as Lake Arrowhead, and to Big Bear lake. It is declared to be the easiest in grades of any route to Big Bear at this time, and is also extremely picturesque.

The Waterman canyon road, which is at the western terminus of the Rim o' the World, may be taken for either Arrowhead or Big Bear lake. It turns almost directly north from San Bernardino. This is an extremely picturesque route and at various places along the road the motorist will find water holes. By taking this road the motorist passes Thousand Pines, the road leading to the Los Angeles camp grounds, Pine Crest, the road to Lake Arrowhead, and continues along the Rim, which is one of the most wonderful of drives, comprising all kinds of scenery, to Big Bear lake.

The travel into Big Bear valley has increased wonderfully during the past few years. Records of the traffic department of San Bernardino county show that during the season 1921, 19,886 automobiles passed into Big Bear valley through the Mill creek control. Comparison will show that this amount of traffic is significant when compared with 18,947 cars that visited Yosemite, and the 15,736 that went to Yellowstone, during the same period.

To reach Big Bear valley leave Glendale via East Colorado boulevard, through Eagle Rock into Pasadena, thence out over the Foothill boulevard to San Bernardino. At this place inquiry will result in the motorist being shown the proper route to take.

SHRINE CARAVANS START AT 2:30 WEDNESDAY

Nobles and Their Families to Assemble From All Points

Every man will want to be a Shriner after reading the alluring announcements of the Glendale Shrine club about the picnic the organization is giving August 30, in the Glendale-Verdugo park "for the nobles, for the nobles' wives, for their children."

The caravan is to start at 2 p. m. with well filled lunch baskets and all preparations made for spending the afternoon and evening at the park.

Admission to the park will be free, free coffee will be served, dancing will be free and the music for the dancing will be supplied by Kelley's Shrine club orchestra.

The afternoon will be given to a program of sports, which will include egg races, bag races, races for children, races for fat women, potato races, nail driving contests, ball throwing contests, a tug-of-war, a beauty contest, a guessing contest, a pie-eating contest, candle races, a ball game and a prize waltz, and for all these events there will be prizes.

All nobles and families in Southern California have been invited to be guests of the club on this occasion, and every noble is expected to wear his fez.

BURBANK ARTISTS MAKE BIG HIT ON PRESS-NEWTON

Mrs. Sparrow's Program Goes Through the Air With Clearness

Charles Leroy Munroe opened the Burbank program last evening by singing "Requiem" and "Absent." Mrs. Zefer Algots Sparrow, who arranged the entire program, rendered two selections on the piano, followed by a solo by Mrs. H. Kirkpatrick. Mrs. Phillip McKellar rendered two solos, and also sang in duet with Mrs. Kirkpatrick.

A report was received in the middle of the program that KFAC was not being heard in Burbank, but this report was immediately disqualified as soon as the operator asked for a report on the phone. Mr. Harding of Burbank called in and stated that he was hearing it just as if the artists were in the same room with him, and on a crystal set at that.

Mr. Watson, at Graham station, nine miles south of Los Angeles, called in and stated that it was coming in simply wonderful. Other reports to the same effect entirely repudiated the first report, showing the trouble to be elsewhere.

JUSTICE WILBUR VISITS THE CITY

Seeks Nomination for Supreme Court Chief Justice of California

CURTIS D. WILBUR
Associate Justice

Associate Justice Curtis D. Wilbur, candidate for chief justice of the supreme court, who has a brilliant record behind him of accomplishments during his 20 odd years of public service is in the city. He is endorsed by the League of Harding Clubs.

Justice Wilbur was admitted to the bar in 1890. Since that time he has served as chief deputy district attorney and judge of the superior court of Los Angeles, which office he has held for 15 years.

During this time he has presided in the criminal department, the lunacy commission, has tried civil cases, and has had complete charge of the juvenile court work for over ten years.

He is a man noted for his humanitarian interests. His years in the juvenile court brought him in close touch with the girls and boys, and he has always been most active in their behalf. He wrote the original draft law for the new juvenile court law of 1915 and has administered that law in cases dealing with over 6000 boys. His work in the interests of the aged, the insane, the foreigner and the stranger, and of indigent parents has been equally constructive.

Justice Wilbur has been a vital factor in the movement against delay of justice. He has materially reduced the amount of elapsing between the time at which a case is at issue and it comes up for trial.

STRONG PLAY AT THE GLENDALE

Constance Binney in "Midnight," Is Virile Attraction

That the public thoroughly enjoys strong, virile drama flavored with a dash of romance and a sprinkle of comedy was evidenced at the Glendale theater last evening where "Midnight," starring Constance Binney, met with the apparent approval of a large audience.

The drama of the piece hinges around an unfortunate early marriage of the heroine, a subsequent happy period of tender romance—and denouement which has been played to give the utmost of dramatic suspense.

It is an entirely different sort of production from either "The Case of Becky" or "First Love," but it is no less important as a strong dramatic offering. Miss Binney travels a difficult dramatic road in a manner truly natural and altogether entertaining.

One of the splendid features of the production is the star's support. Playing the leading role is Jack Mulhall, who needs no introduction to playgoers. In two fine father roles one finds those capable veterans, Edward Martindel and William Courtleigh. Other players who do good work are Sydney Bracey, Arthur S. Hull, Helene Lynch and Herbert Fortier.

"Midnight" will show today for the last time at the Glendale.

OLD FOLKS PICNIC

There are in Southern California a great many people who were born over seventy years ago. These people are not old in spirit, and they like to meet for a picnic reunion as well as the younger folks. So if you are over seventy, this is your invitation for yourself and all your friends past that age to attend the annual picnic reunion of all the people in Southern California, who are past seventy years of age.

This, our 11th annual, will be held in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles, Saturday, September 2, 1922. (Please remember, it is held each year the first Saturday in September). It is an all day picnic with a basket dinner at noon, an informal program following. Bring your dinner; also cup and spoon. Coffee with cream and sugar will be provided free for all. Come as early as you can and have a happy day with these jolly old-young people. It is intended for those over seventy, but if you need help to carry your dinner or to aid you, why just bring any friend along. Pass the word on to just as many as you can, so all may know of it. If you are not yet old enough, give this to some one who is. If you have an extra invitation, give it away; do not waste it. Come as early as you can and stay as long as you desire.

For further information, call up Federation of State Societies. C. H. Parsons, secretary of the Phone 10261, or see him or write to him at Continental National Bank, 9th and Main streets.

WEEKLY FORUM IS SCHEDULED FOR SEPT. 5

New Weekly Luncheons for Members and Invited Guests

As announced sometime ago, weekly forum luncheons are to be inaugurated by the Glendale chamber of commerce, the first one to be given in the banquet hall of the chamber, September 5. These will be open to chamber members and a limited number of invited guests.

Topics to be discussed at this first meeting, as outlined by Secretary Rhoades, are:

The electrification of Glendale avenue.

A new Glendale depot for the Southern Pacific railroad.

A road from Glendale to Griffith park.

The annexation of territory that desires to join Glendale.

The development of Glendale-Verdugo park.

Twelve civic and improvement organizations of the city have been asked to send committees, composed of five representative members from each one, that all parts of the city and all working groups may be represented.

The problems mentioned are of interest to all Glendale, and according to Mr. Rhoades the chamber is trying to unite all its citizens in the consideration of these matters.

SACRAMENTO IS LOYAL TO STEPHENS

So Reports Albert Elkus Mayor of Capitol City

Sacramento will give Governor William D. Stephens a ten-to-one majority at the primary election, according to an estimate by Albert Elkus, mayor of the Capital city and one of the most prominent merchants in the city of Sacramento.

"Sentiment in Sacramento and throughout the county is virtually unanimous for the governor," Mayor Elkus declared.

Mayor Elkus said:

"In the Capital city we know Governor Stephens as a citizen of the highest character and as an executive leader with unusual capabilities.

"We have been privileged to come in closer contact with the state executive than many other sections of the state, and it is a fitting tribute to his sincerity of purpose and his zealous interest in the welfare of the state that Sacramentans should be so overwhelmingly in favor of his re-election.

"Governor Stephens has befriended the farmers by fostering progressive legislation of a constructive and protective nature. He has won the admiration of our business men by giving the state a business administration, founded on solid principles which appeal to men who are interested in furthering economic and efficient administration. The governor's energetic efforts in behalf of equalized taxation, his earnest work in behalf of aid for veterans of the Warld war, his vigorous presentation of the Japanese issue, and his record for clean, progressive government—all these recommend his candidacy to the voters of the state.

"Sacramento will, I am sure, register her approval of the governor by giving him at least a ten-to-one majority."

LIEUT. GEN. YOUNG ISSUES STATEMENT

Finds Support Locally in Race for the Nomination

"I have had the pleasure of spending in and around Los Angeles this last week preceding the primary election," said Lieut. Governor C. C. Young, today. "It is a tribute to this wonderfully growing community that in every part of the state it has become recognized, by those interested in public affairs, that this is a section of California which is rightfully entitled to very especial recognition.

"The registration in Los Angeles county alone is now 30 percent of the total registration in the entire state. It is needless to say that the importance of this county in state legislative matters should be and must be proportioned to its increasing importance in wealth and population.

"As I leave Los Angeles for my home, I wish to express to my many friends of this county my sincere thanks for the very cordial spirit they are showing toward my candidacy for re-election as lieutenant governor. During the one term I have spent in that office, I have faithfully tried to give the best that is in me every moment of the time. On no other grounds would I have any right to ask re-election.

"One of the experiences of this campaign most pleasant to me is the cordial endorsement signed by nearly two hundred and twenty present and former members of the legislature, who have actually served with me in Sacramento, and who ought to be in a position to judge of whatever ability or fitness I may have for the office I hold. To these fellow legislators I want to express my thanks and appreciation for their generous endorsement.

"In going back to Sacramento for another term, I shall have the benefit of the experience gained by my former years of service. I propose to use that experience in such a way as will accrue to the interests of this, as well as of every other portion of the state. The expressions I am hearing from this city and from all parts of this county, that my service in the past is such as to warrant my re-election, are naturally very pleasing to me, and I desire, through the Glendale Daily Press, to thank the people of this part of the state for their manifest good-will toward myself and my candidacy for re-election."

Dirty Politics Exposed

A. Burlingame Johnson calls a halt to despicable methods of opponent's campaign managers

At last dirty politics has been resorted to, in Pasadena in this primary election. It is done, too, in the interest of a retired minister of the Gospel, who seeks a political nomination as State Senator.

Not only dirty politics is resorted to, but absolutely false charges are being circulated in printed folders and placed in the hands of thousands of voters, charging that Reverend Mather's opponent, A. Burligame Johnson, has been pledged by the so-called "Better American Federation" to oppose numerous wholesome measures, a score of which it lists. This in effect is the objcet of the circulars, and by appealing to the voters to vote for the Minister by name it brings the matter home to every voter. The whole dirty mess of falsehoods is issued by a so-called "People's Legislative Committee" of Los Angeles, an out of town, irresponsible group of meddlesome nobodies. Search the list for Pasadena, or Glendale names you know and you will not find them. The old minister should repudiate them.

What are the facts?

A. Burlingame Johnson, Candidate for the State Senate, has no connection whatever with the "Better American Federation" nor has he been indorsed by it.

Mr. Johnson has not been asked for, nor has he given any pledge, directly or implied, to any association seeking to influence legislation. The "Association for Betterment of Public Service" composed of several hundred prominent business and professional men and women of Los Angeles County, did indorse Mr. Johnson, unsolicited, and at the time notified him that no pledge was asked of him and that they would not seek to influence his vote if elected; that they would aid in his election because they thought him fitted for the position.

The Reverend Mather made what was recognized as a public bid for this same indorsement on June 24th, last (see files of Star-News). He publicly quoted the Association requirements of candidates and approved them fully in a speech at the Y. M. C. A. Hall.

The "Association For Betterment of Public Service" has not opposed the Governor's re-election and in answer to Mr. Johnson's inquiry at the time he was indorsed, told him he was free to support Governor Stephens or anyone else. Nor is Mr. Johnson opposing Governor Stephens in this campaign. He has sought to place the blame for high taxes on the Legislature, where it belongs, and declared the necessity for aggrssive, trained men, who are scrappers, to be sent to the Legislature to defeat the designs of reckless incompetents.

Several other Associtaions have indorsed Mr. Johnson for the State Senate; such as: The Republican Central Committee, of this district. He has been indorsed by the representative business and professional men and citizens' associations, generally, who know and believe in him. Of the entire personnel of Reverend Mather's Los Angeles "People's Legislative Committee" not to exceed a half dozen were ever even heard of by Mr. Johnson, nor are they known in this district. It is simply a gratuitous slander and is false from beginning to end. Talk about clean men and clean methods in public office! This dirty business is used in Pasadena to elect a retired minister to a political office and to defeat A. Burlingame Johnson, whose campaign has been clean as his life has been clean.

SHOE SPECIALIST INTRODUCED AT FASHION SHOW

Joseph Goldberg of the Court Shops, Shows Shoe Comfort

Shoes, gloves and hats, and the greatest of these are the shoes.

Every well-dressed woman is aware of this fact, consequently, the display of the most up-to-date in the way of footgear at the recent pageant of fashions at the T. D. & L. theatre, by Joseph Goldberg, footwear specialist of the Court shops, 213 East Broadway, was one of the great hits of the evening, who thus made his debut in shoe comfort circles.

Mr. Goldberg presented 16 exclusive fall models, showing the most correct footwear for all occasions, from sport to the most formal occasions. Predominating fabrics are satin and suede, while black is the most popular shade, 60 per cent of his present sales being in black and 40 per cent in brown. Other fall shades are putty and mummy.

Among the models chosen for the pageant was the new Monte Carlo boot, strictly hand-made, and shown in combinations of black and white, patent and kid, red and black, and white and red. This is an adaptation of the Russian boot, which is not practical in the mild climate of California. These are strictly up to the minute, being among the latest arrivals from New York.

Cuban and Spanish heels are prominent, with the latter as the accepted one for dress wear. Straps are still very good, while oxfords predominate for sports. Many black patent and dull kid combinations are noticed.

Mr. Goldberg is a real authority on styles, for he receives a number of style reports each week. He is even able to show advance models, because of his close touch with the New York houses.

LEAGHTONS GIVE DANCE PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. George Leaghton of Glendale entertained Friday evening with a charming dancing party at their home.

The evening was devoted to dancing, and Mrs. Leaghton, who is a fine singer, rendered several vocal numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Tighe at the piano. Mrs. Tighe is a professional toe dancer, and she and Mr. Tighe gave an exhibition dance.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Tighe, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Oliger of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Marthland, Dr. and Mrs. Warren Line and Mr. and Mrs. Victor M. McCord.

A machine has been invented for vending sandwiches when coins are inserted that keeps them fresh and cool in an ice surrounded compartment.

A company that recently laid a new telegraph cable from England to India, and is continuing it to Singapore, plans to extend it to Hong Kong.

Truths in Epigram

The laws are with us, and God on our side. — Southey (1774-1843).

Let our object be our country, our whole country, and nothing but our country.—Webster (1782-1852.)

It is not reasonings that are wanted now for there are books stuffed full of stoical reasonings.—Epictetus (60 A. D.).

NAMING THE ISSUES

When questions have been asked of Senator Johnson, he has impatiently waved them aside. With a frown and thumping of fist, he has demanded to "know the issue." Just as though the rejected question had not embodied some phase of the issue. Just as though he had not been fully aware of all the issues in advance of questioning. These tactics may be spectacular, but they have failed to convince hearers of the sincerity of Johnson.

Two issues were brought forward by Charles C. Moore at San Francisco when he inquired if the people of California were satisfied with the alignment of their senator with Hearst. To this there was a tumultuous negative. Then he wanted to know if the people of California upheld Johnson in his efforts to defeat President Harding's plan for permanent world peace. Once again there was a roar of dissent.

So here are a pair if issues, which, if they had escaped the attention of Johnson up to the present, there still is time for him to meet. There is no possibility of explaining them away. They stand as matters of fact. He is aligned with Hearst, and he did fight the peace plan. To frame an excuse and "put it across" effectually, it is believed would require greater ingenuity and flashes of eloquence more brilliantly blinding, than the gentleman has at command.

Californians desire to have Johnson succeeded by a constructive senator who is in sympathy with the people of the state. So they turn to Mr. Moore, realizing that he is a fitting type.

A broad constructive policy, or a narrow, personal and destructive policy; these are the issues stated in another form.

PROTECTING THE PUBLIC

A man forged a check for $10 the other day. He wanted the money to buy his sweetheart a pair of shoes so that she might go to a dance. She got the shoes, enjoyed the occasion, and the thoughtless young man who afforded her the experience is a convict. There was no trouble in proving his guilt. Nobody came forward to explain that the moral faculties of the prisoner had been shattered in youth by the kick of a horse, or a blow from a bat. He had to take his medicine, as the saying is. What became of the shoes is not stated. Perhaps the girl, whirling with a new partner, still wears them.

The incident is a trifling one, as criminal annals run, and yet it is significant as showing how the law protects property. Its hand rests heavily on the petty thief who lacks the intelligence to perform his criminal acts with deftness, or the money to hire a lawyer accustomed to thwart justice. But in respect of protecting life, the law is far less rigid. The assassin is a more desperate person than the oaf so much a dullard as to forge a $10 check, with discovery of the act a certainty. The person who slays, lends himself but reluctantly to the process of capture. If taken he generally has nothing to fear. So the shameful total of crimes of violence grows at appalling speed.

If these crimes shall not be checked, ultimately their prevalence will hurt property values. When a community has reached that stage at which a citizen is not safe from being murdered in the street, or in the fancied security of his own home, material interests are in danger. If murderers, as such, are to be excused, they should be regarded as enemies of prosperity. Then their dangerous attributes would stand out clearly, and perhaps steps be taken to discourage them in following their vocation.

EXTENDING THE MORTAL SPAN

Much has been said lately concerning the number of centenarians, particularly of this region. The showing truly is remarkable. The ancient limit of three score and ten seems to have been set aside. The man of seventy does not even consent to be regarded as old. The man of sixty believes himself to be in his prime, feels it, and acts it.

Recently a man of 102 delivered an eloquent sermon at Whittier. Not only was the address phrased gracefully, and at intervals with rare beauty, but the thought was fine and high. The voice of the speaker, full, smooth and musical, gave no hint of age. This man cited certain rules for longevity. They had proved excellent for him. To another they might have brought no benefit; all must have depended upon the constitution with which the other had been endowed.

Dispatches tell of the death of one Patrick Kelly in Nebraska at 110. This man had been a soldier in many foreign lands, campaigning in Italy, Spain, India and other countries. The hardships of such a life could not have afforded opportunity for nice observance of laws of diet and sanitation, or even of habits of thought.

There is a man of 97 who lately was employed as a finishing carpenter in construction of a house in Altadena. He made the daily round trip from Los Angeles, as he lives in the distant southwestern quarter of that city. He works with skill, and gives no special evidence of weariness. He smokes a pipe that is evident to the senses from afar. Born a Russian, he was exiled to Siberia, where existence was not soft. He escaped from that place after a term of years, experiencing untold hardships, such as would have killed a person differently equipped with natural strength. He has one son of sixty-three, and one of twelve years.

All of which goes to prove that the centenarian, whatever his belief to the contrary, is a distinctive type, and that he outlives his fellows chiefly because he was different from the beginning.

CITIZEN SOLDIERS

Thousands more young men were trained in military camps this summer than had appeared the year before. The experience was highly satisfactory to them, and to the thoughtful people of the country were glad to observe it. The change in routine, the subjection to discipline, the hard physical exercise, all were beneficial. They promoted bodily and mental health. They gave to the students a definite idea of public service, bringing them into touch with government affairs; making them realize their importance as a class to the future of the country.

American are devoted, as the result of profound conviction, to the cause of peace. There is not the slightest idea of conquest entertained by them. They do not feel the need of supporting a great military establishment. Nevertheless they understand the importance of having material that without loss of time might be wrought into a defensive army. They have no expectation that such an army will be called to the field. It is, by reason of the fact that it could if circumstances demanded, be called quickly, and made effective, that the necessity for calling it is so remote as to be almost negligible.

The individual who cultivates his strength and health does not do so with the idea of employing them just because he has them at command. So it is with a nation. It may be peaceably inclined. In sudden emergency, or to prevent hostile approach, it must guard itself against loss of the power of self-defense.

The wind frequently turns an umbrella, but a borrower seldom returns it.

An Insect Friend

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Some insects are our enemies and some are our friends.

Perhaps a man has no more right on the earth than a rat. But being men, we are inclined to look at the matter from rather a selfish standpoint. Hence, we kill rats.

DR. FRANK CRANE

As self-defence is the first law, human beings are, perhaps, justified in mercilessly exterminating such creatures as the common house fly and the mosquito. For whatever purposes these may have in the universe, no one has ever discovered any other relation they have toward mankind, except a desire to exterminate it.

One insect that we are afraid of instinctively, and yet which is really our friend, is the wasp.

John J. Ward, author of "Insect Biographies With Pen and Camera," gives some interesting items that may help to improve our opinion of this insect, which carries so formidable a weapon.

In the first place, the wasp will not attack us as a rule if we let him alone; and he only injures us in self-defence.

His regular business is to hunt and destroyed those insects which are the foe of men.

Besides this, he is a natural scanenger, and along with the carrion crow and the sea-gull in removing animal and vegetable matter which is decaying and likely to make disease.

The wasp is a country jake. He rarely comes into town, or even penetrates the garden. When he does come to town, his favorite resort is the butcher's shop, where he busies himself with catching flies, pouncing upon them and almost immediately cutting off their wings with his sharp mandibles, after which he carries away the body as prey for his young.

His usual food consists of flies, caterpillars, and plant life, for a meat diet. But he is also found of attacking rotting fruit in the orchard.

"If he becomes a pest, it is," says Mr. Ward, "because he succumbs to temptation; as, for instance, while catching flies in the butcher's shop, he may take to carrying off little pieces of meat.

"Still, to exterminate the wasps would be a foolish thing, for they destroy many worse pests.

"The very abundance of wasps and their rapid development show that they play an important part in the balance of summer life forms. There may be 60,000 wasps reared in a single nest from its commencement in early May by the queen until its destruction in late October.

"The wasp rarely ever stings unless provoked in some way, but it will not diverted from its purpose. I have often been stung several times in an hour when photographing the interior of wasps' nests, but a spot of pure olive oil smeared over the part invariably proves an immediate remedy. There is no cure so good."

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers)

"THE OUTCAST"

It is the desire of "The Right Word" to point out a few characteristics of style in contemporary novels (and other books) that are being widely read. Today the subject of discussion is "The Outcast," by Selma Lagerlof (translated by W. Worster, M. A.).

Got Instead of Gotton

"He's got worn and smooth from all the hard knocks he's got. . . ." (Page 26—conversation.)

As If Instead of As Though

"It seemed as if he were resigned now. . . . (Page 26—translator); "It was as if I was just something to laugh at and make fun of." (Page 138—conversation.)

"Cannot" One Word

". . . you will not tell me that you cannot walk that little way." (Page 63.)

Possessive Before Verbal Noun

"If only she could get away from Hanger without any one learning who she was. . . ." (Page 209—translator.) Correct: without any one's learning who she was.

Possessive Before Verbal Noun

"There seemed little chance of his leaving the island." (Page 26—translator. His is correct.)

"That" in a Restrictive Clause

"To my mind, the boy's like one of the stones that lie down on the shore. . . ." (Page 26.) That is generally used when an adjective clause is intended to identify a noun, as in the case of "that lie down on the shore."

Yesterday's Error

"Will you please give me the right definition of the words affecting and effecting and an example of the two."

Corrected: Will you please give me the right definitions of the words affecting and effecting and an example of the use of each?

THE LISTENING POST

Wait a minute, Little Word.
There you are on the end of the tongue.
Just waiting to pop out.
Like a frisky little animal held in a cage.
Open the door.
And the frisky little being is gone.

* * *

A very little word, perhaps.
A Yes or a No.
A hasty word and a sharp one.
An ill considered word.
Waiting there at the tip end of the tongue.
Anxious to pop out into the world.

* * *

Many evils have been wrought by the popping out into the world of hasty little words.
Or of angry little words.
Barbed little words like arrows.
A snap judgment.
A bit of gossip repeated.

* * *

So wait a minute, Little Word.
There is no great hurry.
You will be there as spry as ever after five minutes.
Or ten minutes.
And in the meantime we will consider you.
What your effect will be.
Whether you are a good word to let out into the world.
Or whether you ought to be sent back whence you came.

* * *

All things considered, are you a just word?
You are uttered in condemnation of some one it may be.
Are you such a word as I would like to have hastily uttered concerning me?
No?
Then—
Back you go.

* * *

Somebody wants to exact a promise from you.
Promises are easily made.
The more of them you make the fewer you keep perhaps.
And promises made ought to be promises kept.
So—
Somebody asks a promise.
And the little word is there waiting to pop out its yes.
But—

* * *

Wait a minute, Little Word.
Will it be possible to keep that promise?
All things considered, ought I to Make it?
And will the keeping of it involve embarrassment, loss of self-respect, pain or humiliation?
Just a minute, Little Word!
Let us think it over.
And you will wait until we see whether to open the door and let you out.

* * *

Then there is the snap judgment.
The quick and hasty condemnation.
The little word of anger waiting there poised and ready to run.
But—
Wait a minute, Little Word.
Do I wish to be judged so hastily?
Not to be heard in my own behalf?
No?

* * *

Then we will keep the door shut.
Keep the little word there inside.
A few minutes will give time to think it over.
Or till tomorrow.
There is no hurry.

* * *

Yes, Little Word.
There you are, spry as can be, waiting to leap off the tongue and do an injury maybe.
But—
Wait a minute and let us think it over.

SONGS OF THE POETS

Jenny Kissed Me—By Leigh Hunt (1784-1859)

Jenny kissed me when we met,
Jumping from the chair she sat in;
Time, you thief, who love to get
Sweets into your list, put that in.

Say, I'm weary, say I'm sad,
Say that health and wealth have missed me,
Say I'm growing old, but add,
Jenny kissed me.

Birds Far Surpass Man in Air Flights

The Sampaio-Correia, giant man-made sea bird which attempted to wing its way to Rio de Janeiro and failed, has a successful competitor in a true bird, the duck. A recent report received by F. C. Lincoln of the Biological Survey tells that a blue wing teal banded in Lake Scrugog in Canada, 16 miles from Lake Ontario, was found in Trinidad two months and seven days later, having covered the 3000 miles in that time. It covered a route similar to that taken by the S-C.

It has been thought formerly that the ducks whose breeding place was in Canada made their winter home in our southern states while the ducks of Nebraskan game regions were the ones which migrated to South America. The flight of this blue wing teal, however, would seem to indicate that the Canadian water fowl make a flight which outstrips that of our western ducks.

Although the migration of birds has been studied for over 30 years, it was not until recently that individual bird flights have been accurately followed on an extensive scale by banding.

But the champion long-distance migrant of the world is not the duck but the arctic tern. Its winter and summer residences are a mere 11,000 miles apart. It breeds on the south coast of Greenland and on northern borders of North America as far north as it can find land on which to build its nest, and in winter wings its way across the two Americas to far beyond Cape Horn as far south as there is open water to furnish it food. The term makes a round trip of 22,000 miles each year.

Many North American birds take an annual trip to South America. Most of them follow a route which necessitates a flight of 500 to 700 miles across the Gulf of Mexico. A few, however, enter South America by way of Florida and the West Indies, while in fall the golden plover flies over the ocean from Nova Scotia to South America, a distance of 2400 miles.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

KU KLUX IN TEXAS

[New York Evening Post]

Only the second or "run off" primary can determine whether the ku klux klan is the power in Texas politics that it appears to be as one views the results of the first primary. But if the early returns are borne out and the veteran Culberson runs on better than third, democratic voters will be left with a hard choice for the senatorship in the second primary. At the head of the poll is Mayfield, the klan candidate, and next to him is ex-Governor Ferguson, who was impeached for unlawful use of state funds. Unless later figures alter the standing, the final choice for the next senator from Texas will lie between these two men.

Democratic Texas is thus showing the same symptoms as republican Oregon showed in her recent primary. We are witnessing a resurgence of the nativist movement, coupled with anti-Catholic sentiment and mixed up with a drastic law and order demand. This is an unwholesome development. If Texas were a frontier community, there might be a proper if temporary place for Vigilantes, but a settled commonwealth like the Lone Star state has no business creating an extra-legal administration of justice.

CAVE-MAN TARIFF THEORY

[Springfield Republican]

The theory of protection entertained by Senator Gooding of Idaho, who dictated the duties on raw wool in the pending bill, were well summarized by himself. If he had his way, he would build a tariff wall so high "that there would be an embargo against every foreign-made article that can be manufactured in this country." In brief, an absolute monopoly of the American market for American producers or manufacturers is the senator's conception of protection. It is a cave-man theory which no political party has ever ventured to stand for.

MERELY A TRIFLE

[Kansas City Times]

On further examination it appears that the bankruptcy of a well-known Wall street broker is not nearly so bad as it first looked. It now develops that he owes only eighteen million dollars, and public interest may be expected to subside rapidly.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Goodness knows that for whatever people buy, they must pay enough. They are quite accustomed to stiff prices. As a rule they do not blame the dealer. To kick to him is much akin in futility to protesting to a conductor over the price of a ticket sold at the regular rate. But the purchaser, paying a fancy figure, has a right to require the seller to deliver that which the price is supposed to cover.

HENRY JAMES

In cities where the matter of weights and measures has been neglected, inauguration of a system of inspection always results in confiscation of enough crooked scales, and short measures, to fill a warehouse.

Recently a driver was fined heavily for putting 72 pounds of ice in a customer's box, and collecting for 100 pounds. Such a trick must be common, for every little while it is detected. The average patron of the ice wagon takes what is tendered, and never even looks with suspicion upon a block, which may be 25 per cent under proper weight.

If everybody were honest this would be a much nicer world in which to live. Unhappily its teeming surface is thickly dotted with rogues. Some of them are ready to pick a pocket, swing a lethel club, or vamoose with the new automobile. A number sell oil stock that they know to be worthless. Others go no farther than to peddle short-weight ice. But they are all of a lot.

One of the most shameful features of illicit liquor traffic is that the fiery stuff now passing as whisky gets into the possession of youths, not even girls being exempt. They don't like it. Until recently they never had thought of obtaining it. But they are silly enough to swallow it.

Just the other day a girl was picked up on one of the beaches, sodden drunk from moonshine. It had been given her by people old enough to know better.

Here's hoping a long term for each of the guilty, and for all others of their stripe.

Poor Ireland, already engaged in a struggle that to observers could present no aspect but that of a blind and unreasoning folly, has received a bitter blow.

No single outrage possible to commit there could have startled the world more than the cowardly assassination of Michael Collins. In him rested the hope of peace for Ireland.

The spirit of his followers, as expressed immediately after the tragedy, was high and fine, giving promise that the influence of the dead leader may continue.

The world will say of Collins that he was a patriot. It will not say this concerning the men who lurked in ambush, and from cover shot him down.

* * *

New Jersey had a peach day, when it was considered a community duty to eat a lot of the fruit, just as on a certain date Californians gorge on oranges. Convicts in the penitentiary heard of the celebration and were ready to do their part. When they got but half a peach apiece they felt they were being denied the right to full expression of their devotion to the worthy industry of peach-growing. So they staged a riot.

There must be a singular potency in the peach. Think of what the little one that in a orchard grew, did for the little John and his sister Sue of 'Gene Field's poem.

Wages of steel laborers have been raised 20 per cent. Something of the sort had long been urged upon the steel corporations. Doubtless the men are grateful and the public appreciative.

There now remains to the same corporations the duty of abolishing the 12-hour day and the brutal 24-hour shift the present system necessitates.

* * *

Striving to make an impression, a young man at Long Beach purchased a pair of trousers of corduroy. The garment was tight about the thigh and knee. At the bottom it belied wide. Across a split on the outside, laces were drawn after the fashion of the picturebook Spaniard.

So far so good. But the wearer was spied by another young man who first made invidious remarks, and then smote the person of the gaily trousered individual. Both went to jail after the fight had progressed towards an interesting climax. The queerest phase of the episode was when the father of the picturesque film Spaniard reached the jail with bail. He took one glimpse at the trousers, rammed the bail money back in his pocket, and went away from there.

However, there are so many odd happenings in the world, and particularly at Long Beach, that perhaps this one is not worth mentioning.

* * *

It is a matter of pride to Californians that in observatories of this state are scientists engaged in ascertaining the heat of stars, which doubtless it is important to know.

Yet next winter, in the snow belt, a more pressing question will be as to the heat in the furnace, and how to maintain it without fuel.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Two years ago Doc Henneberry was tooling Lizzie down a back street when he saw a group of our young savages tormenting a stranger. They were dancing behind, on both sides, in front of him, as irritating and unreachable as a swarm of midges. Fingers out-stretched, they were chanting:

"Dago, dago, dago."

The man wore a bright handkerchief around his head and carried a pack wrapped in a brilliant blanket. In his right hand, Doc saw, was the haft of a knife. The last few years have shown that most of us are savages at heart. The human animal is most nearly savage when he is about eleven years old. Or when he is in fear.

"What's the matter?" asked Doc Henneberry. His Italian may not be of a Prix de Dome quality, but it is understandable. The poor devil's eyes lighted up as Doc chased the yowling kids away. It was just the ordinary immigrant's story, some what intensified and acidified. He knew no English, he was pennliness, his wife was starving in Italy, and he was in hopeless search of a colony of his own people.

"So I gave him a job," Doc Henneberry told me that night, "cleaning up the liz and making garden and looking out for my chickens—have you seen those Dominicker stags of mine? They're good—and I let him sleep in that room over the garage."

I never shrink from my duty. I told Doc he was an old fool. It seems to me, somehow, that I have been rather lavish in calling people fools lately, when I have detected them at some work of kindly sentiment. Maybe I am getting old?

"If you have jobs to give away, why don't you give them to some American?" I asked, passionate but ungrammatically.

"So long as we let these people come over here," said Doc, "we're in honor bound to take some interest in them. I had rather keep them out, for I think we should take time to digest those we have on hand. But so long as we let them in we must look out for them."

There isn't any moral, except that the Dago's wife and kids are with him now, and that Doc Henneberry's early vegetables are the pride of the land, and that the Italian has made the first payment on a little piece of land.

Anyhow, that isn't a moral.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

THAT your newspapers are a productive, advertising medium for manufacturers, distributors, and retail merchants, because they prove the buying power of their readers.

THAT the unselfish motive on the part of the live men who are putting your city forward will be one of the chief reasons for its success. They place service to their city first.

THAT your city is a great retail center. She has stores of every kind.

That your business community has never willed a thing and failed.

THAT your city should take advantage of every opportunity that beckons.

THAT no matter how difficult some city problems are, a little analysis and commnn sense will disclose that they are built up out of simple things that are easily adjusted.

THAT what others have done, your city can do in proportion to its capacity.

THAT the thrill of doing must first find lodgment in the minds and purposes of the citizens before any municipal benefit can be accomplished.

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 28. — The first oil well drilled in the Creek Indian country, or what is Oklahoma today, on June 25, 1901, is still producing oil.

The well was drilled in at 600 feet, on the Sue A. Bland allotment, now the center Red Fork, 5 miles west of Tulsa. The initial production was around four score barrels a day, while at present only a small quantity of the precious liquid is obtained daily, by use of a pump.

Men, experienced only in prospecting for zinc and lead, brought in this first Oklahoma well. They were financed by J. C. W. Bland, heir to the Bland allotment.

GASOLINE ROW GANG RETURNS FROM FIRST ANNUAL OUTING AT ARROWHEAD LAKE RESORT

Glendale Motor Car Dealers' Association Holds Its High Jinks at Mountain Retreat; Big Parade Marks Their Home-coming

The folks along gasoline row have returned from the first annual high jinks at Little Bear lake. They spent Wednesday night and Thursday morning at the lake, which is now known as Arrowhead lake.

At noon the gang left the resort for the run to Glendale. They arrived early in the afternoon and each dealer says that he is convinced that he is selling the best automobile in Glendale.

The trip was a funfest from the time the dealers left Glendale until they returned on Thursday. Already the directors of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association, under the leadership of George Smith, newly elected president of the organization, are making plans for a jinks, to be held next summer, that will eclipse this year's affair.

When the bunch got back to Glendale they paraded the streets in their machines, with sirens blowing, just to let the home folks know they were back.

STRIKE BOOSTS TRUCKS

"Strike conditions on the railroads are always conducive to good business among motor truck dealers," said Harry E. White, local Reo dealer and agent for the Reo Speedwagon, yesterday.

He said that the recent rail strike gave an added impetus to truck business and that the Speedwagon found added favor with the fruit and vegetable men, as well as the handlers of all freights.

The Speedwagon is popular because of the fact that it can be used for every type of hauling. There is a Speedwagon for every kind of freight. Many freight handlers have purchased Speedwagons as a precaution against another strike.

FORDSON REPLACES HORSES

Jesse E. Smith, local Ford dealer, is calling the attention of patrons and prospective purchasers of Fordson tractors, for which he is also the agent, to the following facts that demonstrate the value of a Fordson in any business. The following report has been made to authorized Ford dealers throughout the Southland by the street superintendent of the city of Santa Barbara:

"Santa Barbara replaced two horse-drawn rotary brooms with one Fordson tractor and a rotary sweeper, and the Ford is now doing in five hours, at much less expense, what the two vehicles formerly accomplished in eight hours. In addition, the city is using the Ford on other work, such as grading, back-filling ditches, plowing and hauling.

George D. Morrison, city engineer and street superintendent, has reported that the cost per mile for the operation of the tractor and broom over a period of three months has been $0.055; for the driver, $0.14, of a total of $0.195, or less than 20 cents for the mile.

The tractor was operated at an average speed of 3.96 miles to the hour on this work.

On the heavy labor the tractor was maintained at an average cost of $0.22 a mile.

The cost of sweeping with the horse-drawn equipment amounted to $0.43 per mile, according to Mr. Morrison, which is quite a bit more than double the expense which the city has had in keeping the Fordson constantly in operation.

HASTE MEANS EXPENSE

Just because a driver passes a car in a quick "spurt" doesn't mean he has improved his chances of reaching his destination any more quickly than the steady, consistent driver. According to the same law of averages, safety also depends on the rate of speed.

So believes J. L. Booth of the Reliable garage, 310 East Colorado street, who said:

"When there is a lone line of traffic moving along a highway you can usually see some person driving a powerful car, whip out of line, dash past the car ahead, and cut back in line again. This is repeated time and time again, till in the course of a few miles, the car may have advanced a half mile in the line by passing some 15 or 20 other cars.

He never stops to think that he has taken 15 or 20 chances of a smash-up by so doing. As one passes a car there is the natural tendency to pull in just when the steering wheel has passed the other fellow's radiator. Many a car, rendered mute by an overwhelming fatality, has been found to bear positive evidence that the cause could be traced to this unfortunate driving evil.

"Dodging in and out requires constant use of the brakes, which soon wear out. 'Racing in low and second will eventually strain a motor, and no tires made can stand the uneven skidding."

MAXWELL OWNERS TOURING WEST IN CARS

Bring Wonderful Reports of Performance of New Model

"Maxwell owners are arriving from all parts of the country almost daily," says Mr. Clark of the Glendale Motor Car company, 124 West Colorado street, Maxwell dealers, "with wonderful reports on the performance of the new series Maxwell car.

"One of the recent arrivals in Glendale, Fred L. Mortensen, 336 North Orange street, who is a Maxwell owner, has just brought his family here from Caspar, Wyo., having driven in a Maxwell touring car and averaging 227 miles daily.

"Mr. Mortensen claims that he averaged 22.6 miles to the gallon of gasoline on the entire trip, and the only time he put oil in the motor was when he would drain the crankcase at the end of every 500 miles.

On his trip from Caspar, Wyo., Mr. Mortensen says that he came to a hill called the Camel's Hump, which no motor car attempted to make because of its very steep, rough, rocky grade. It was generally considered impossible, and for this reason a team of horses and a man are provided to tow cars over the hill, and is called a snubber team. The car performed so well on other hills, that he thought he would pass up the aid of the snubber team is getting over this hill, and, much to the surprise of the team owner and others who had been towed over the hill, he reached the top of it without any difficulty, and is now looking for other impossible hills to conquer with his sturdy Maxwell car.

HOW TO TRAVEL IN THE FOREST

Examiner Shinn Tells Equipment Needed to Avoid Grief

By CHARLES H. SHINN

A story in one of the August periodicals describes with contagious rapture the mishaps of an autocar tourist in Utah, who boldly ignored warning signs and tried to cross a desert without sufficient supplies of gasoline. But almost every day in California forests people with teams or with machines are trying to have a good time without the faintest idea of how to take care of themselves and those with them. Often the results are suffering, ridicule, revolt, hatred of the idea of another such camp.

Once, in a national forest, some 15 years ago, we came across a young couple from the valley who had made a camp in a clump of oaks on a ridge. They had two horses tied to manzanita bushes; the tent was up; the fire built. The young man rushed out with a bucket and halted us. "Please tell me where I can find some water."

"And horse feed?" we asked.

"I suppose so. But we need water right now in order to get supper."

"Well, you crossed a bridge over the creek half a mile back. Lots of water there; also a sign pointing to a spring on the west bank, a little lower down, and a camping place used by lots of people; also a few clumps of grass and ferns on both sides of the little creek that will help your horses. Of course, you have rolled barley for them, and ropes to stake them out?"

"Why, no, I haven't! The stableman didn't tell me that."

It took some work, but we finally had the young couple and the horses made at home within reach of "wood, water and horsefeed." We told them with what labor the rangers made signs of help and warning. We went even further and asked about supplies and all sorts of things which tourists need for comfort. Here are a few points for these August and September vacations:

Travel light, but take all you really need for genuine comfort. Take simple but varied food supplies. Have a nested cooking outfit. Be sure to take light, warm bedding, one change of clothes and two pairs of extra socks for each individual in the party. Do not leave out soap and towels.

Now we come to the all-important items, which are there:

(1) Good maps, knowledge of the country ahead, willingness to learn by asking and thinking about it; (2) safety matches, pamphlets and folders of the forest service about making camps, and especially about prevention of fires; (3) a small "first aid" kit for use in case of accident. Essential also, is the habit of close inspection of the outfit, whether wagon or automobile. "Safety first."

PECULIARITIES OF PLANT DEFINED

When Everything Is Right the Motor Will Go—Can't Help It

It has been shown that the gasoline engine is like a gun, the sylinders being analogous to the gun barrel, the pistons are harnessed projectiles, the gasoline mixture takes the place of gun powder, which burns and gives high pressure, the spark plugs serve as the gun cap or primer which lights the explosive, and the timer, coils and complete ignition system fill the requirements of the lock, hammer and trigger of the gun.

A gas engine cannot be erratic or obstinate because it has no mind of its own; if it fails to do its work, run or start, it is because there is something wrong. There are four things that may prevent an engine from running when all parts of the engine are in their places and in general order. With a perfect gun there can be no shooting unless there is powder in it, with a bullet or charged of shot well rammed down upon the powder, a good cap to light the powder and a means of setting off the cap. So with the gasoline engine there must be a good mixture of air and gasoline in the cylinder, the piston rammed down upon it, compressing it, and a good ignition system to light it off at the right time. If all these things are right the engine is just as sure to run as the bullet is sure to leave the gun when the cap is snapped on a well-loaded rifle. When an engine is properly lubricated and has good mixture, good compression and good ignition, there is no doubt about its running.

About 75 per cent of minor engine troubles can be traced to ignition, and every owner and driver should make a study of the ignition system with which his automobile is squipped, be able to meet the multitude of little troubles which so frequently confront the motorist, and feel confident that he is master of the situation.

In principle all of the modern ignition systems are alike, and the general fundamental principles will be considered first.

Whether the engine is equipped with battery ignition or magneto they are all high-tension systems. This means that the electricity flows to the spark plugs under a pressure sufficiently high (high voltage) to cause it to arc or "jump" across the space between the points of the spark plug in the cylinder, under high compression.

To create this high voltage, "step it up," it is necessary to have an induction coil; a circuit or path for the low voltage to flow through from the battery through the primary coil and back to the battery; a means of opening and closing the circuit at the proper time for ignition, ths s the crcuit breaker or timer; some means of opening the circuit when the engine is to be stopped, this is the ignition switch; a secondary coil, which is wound outside of the primary coil and which produces the high voltage; from the secondary coil there must be a path for the high voltage current to travel upon to the distributor, this is the main secondary wire; the distributor is a device which switches the high tension electricity through secondary cables to the different spark plugs in the proper sequence.

Each one of these various parts will be separately considered, but before explaining and describing the various units of the electric system of the automobile it will first be necessary to teach the language of electricity, or at least define a few of the common terms. The volt or voltage of electricity is the abstract pressure which causes electricity to flow. Electricity is a non-compressible fundamental substance or medium, having weight and volume, which transfers energy or power the same as water, air or any other liquid or gas, when under pressure. Water in a pipe may be under very high pressure, and yet no water be flowing. If it does not flow it cannot be used. A man can die of thirst lying beside a pipe line in which the pressure is 1000 pounds per square inch if he could not cause the water to flow to his stomach. Electricity may be under high voltage, but if there is no flow of electricity there is no effect. Pressure causes water to flow when there is a place for it to flow through, voltage causes electricity to flow when there is something for it to flow through, and when it flows it can do something, work.

GLENDALE MOTOR DEALERS HOLD FIRST JINKS

Return From Trip to Arrowhead Country Club Feeling Fine

Members of the Glendale Motor Dealers' association are home after their first annual high jinks that was held at the Arrowhead Country club, formerly Little Bear lake. The bunch returned Thursday night before dark. A few remained for the week-end, going to Big Bear lake.

There were 40 dealers and their associates in the party attending the jinks. When the party arrived at the resort they found that through the efforts of C. L. Smith, Glendale Chevrolet dealer, that the clubhouse had been turned over to the dealers exclusively.

At 7:30 the travelers sat down to dinner. Bill Bode and his orchestra were taken to the resort by the dealers. The orchestra furnished music during the meal.

Ray Galvin of the Buick agency was toastmaster. He called on George T. Smith, newly elected head of the organization, for the principal address of the evening. Mr. Smith talked on "Cooperation and Friendly Spirit," rather than the old time fight between the representatives of the various automobiles on the market. James French, M. B. Tolman and others talked.

After the dinner some members of the party took boat rides around the lake, but the majority turned in for a good night's sleep in preparation for the sports scheduled for Thursday.

On Thursday morning two teams were chosen from among the members of the organization and a heated indoor ball game played. Nobody knows which team won. Those who did not play ball spent the morning playing tennis, fishing and horseback riding among the hills.

The entire party assembled at the lake at 10 a. m. and went for a 22 mile boat ride around the lake. They returned at 11 o'clock and in their machines drove to Camp Flemming for lunch.

After lunch the party started the return trip to Glendale. Practically every car had returned to Glendale before 6 o'clock on Thursday night and as far as could be learned there was nothing to mar the trip. Not even one tiny blowout or puncture.

The dealers are all of the opinion that the first jinks of the organization was a "whiz" and are already planning for the next one in the summer of 1923. They say that considerable credit for the success of the trip is due to President Smith and M. B. Tolman, secretary of the association.

COAST ROUTE IS NEARLY FINISHED

Auto Club of So. Cal. Reports Progress of the Road to Mexico

Motorists throughout Southern and Central California will welcome the news just issued by the Automobile club of Southern California that the coast route, famous the world over, is rapidly nearing completion from Mexico to San Francisco.

The latest stretch to be finished and thrown open to the public is that between Zaca and Buellton. This eliminates what has been a very unpleasant detour, and assures smooth going for the entire distance between Los Angeles and San Luis Obispo.

Work is also progressing on the strip of road between Tustin and Irvine and near La Jolla on the San Diego section.

There is only eight miles of dirt road remaining on the entire 444 miles between San Francisco and Los Angeles. This is found on two detours, one over the old Cuesta grade and the other from San Juan to Sargent near Gilroy.

Thousands of motorists will attend a celebration to be held at Buellton, Suday, which will mark the opening of the new road. A barbecue will be held, to which the touring public is invited, according to the Auto club representative at Santa Maria. Touring parties from all Southern California counties are planning to trek to the "big feed" at this time, and to investigate the road for themselves.

'BRIGHT AND FAIR' ON THE BEACH AT LAKE TAHOE, PRESS AUTO EDITOR MAKES HIS REPORT

Troubleless Drive from Glendale Ends at Meeker's, Where There Is Splendid Scenery, Fine bathing and Lots of People Vacationing

AND HE MADE IT IN HIS LITTLE OLD HENRY

Bert Marple Chortles About the Fine Time He Is Having Far From Motor Row and the Heat While the Missus and the Kid Join in the Gladsome Chorus

By BERT MARPLE

Bright and fair at the beach at Meek's bay, Lake Tahoe. Some camp, some lake, some country, some trip—thus far.

Am down sitting on the sand at the beach—there is an excellent sand beach there, bordered with pines. The hotel and pavilion overlook the beach and the lake. The inevitable flagpole with Old Glory occupies the center of the space. There are number of folks in bathing.

We landed at Meek's about 4 o'clock yesterday after a wonderful, troubleless trip. "Henry" lost only a couple of shots all the way up, and pulled like an old-timer.

The first night out we camped on the beach ten miles north of Santa Barbara. Found an old fisherman who slipped us four mackerel, which we had for breakfast next morning. By 8 o'clock Sunday we were on our way again. All day we hammered along, and made camp at Salinas, the distance covered being about 250 miles for the day. Not bad for little Henry? The bright light on this day's trip was the Gaviota pass. It is a wonderful piece of country and well worth a trip up there to see it.

Monday morning, shortly after 7, we were on our way again, and we pounded the road steadily and hard for a while, but about noon the machine driven by the party with whom we were traveling suffered a sticking valve, and we had to waste a little time until the mechanic found and remedied the trouble. A little further we had to stop to have the other car given a general greasing—which took about an hour and a half. Thirty miles before we struck Sacramento one of the springs on my rear "shocks" broke, and we had to limp into that place, where we found a branch of the Western Auto Supply company, and there I secured new springs. Time lost, one-half hour. This was the only time lost thus far on account of any trouble with the Ford. She's running pretty.

We camped Monday night about 30 miles out of Placerville, which is a thriving little mountain city. The ride to Placerville from Sacramento is wonderful and scenic.

Upon reaching Placerville Tuesday morning we filled up with water, gas and oil, and hit the road for Tahoe. The trip up the hill is great. Road good, scenery unsurpassed, people delightful. The pine-bordered lake is grand. Got Big Bear beat in many ways. Passed Emerald bay, where Miss Ryan, our society news shark, spent her vacation. It is certainly a jewel, and I'm not at all surprised that Ruth fell in love with it and the "young folks" who were there.

Expect to stay here until tomorrow morning, then we will be on our way again. Our next stop will be Truckee, where we expect to stay a few days and fish the streams of that section.

With the exception of a few very short stretches, we have struck wonderful roads. Met six auto cops and each time slowed down to 60 miles per. Lots of auto camps all along the way, and the charges for entrance are nominal.

After a few days at Truckee we will hit back to Sacramento, and from there down the Valley boulevard to Glendale.

Please tell "Cap" Watson that we haven't had a breakdown yet, but are expecting one soon.

Went fishing up one of the small streams out of here this morning. Didn't expect to catch anything, and were not disappointed.

Must close now, as the dinner bell is about to ring. We have "dinner" three times a day while in camp, with lunches between times.

GOOD AUGUST BUSINESS

"Business is fine," says George T. Smith, newly elected head of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association, and Willys-Knight and Overland dealer.

Mr. Smith says that the month of August has been the best he has experienced in Glendale. This is in spite of the railroad strike that has delayed deliveries to no small extent. The month of July was the best Mr. Smith had experienced to date. He said yesterday that already August business has exceeded that of July.

MOTOR CARS STIR IN UNREST OF SEASON

Central and Southern Counties Shipping Machines to California

There is a great and unusual stir of motorcar travel throughout America at this time, and Southern California is largely the center of activity.

This report is just issued by the shipping department of the Automobile club of Southern California, which keeps an accurate check on the movement of motor vehicles all over the United States.

Although thousands of motorists, more than ever before, are traveling across the continent in their own machines, other thousands are taking long distance jumps by rail—but shipping their own cars with them, particularly for touring in Southern California.

The shipping department of the Auto club is operated for the purpose of transporting automobiles for motorists at the lowest possible rates and at the least possible trouble. Groups of motorists who wish to ship their cars to California or to other lands are organized by the club through this department so that freight rates may be secured as low as possible and to the greatest advantage of the motorists.

By tabulating the movement of these motoring groups, the club is thus able to keep a finger on the pulse of motoring activity, and it is declared by its officials that the actual use of automobiles is in a great state of flux (mobility) at this time, due in a large sense, to the attraction of Southern California as a touring field.

Motorists in the central and southern counties are shipping cars in large numbers to Hawaii, South America, India and even to Japan. Shipments are also being made at this time to practically every eastern state for short tours. But the heaviest noted travel is toward this part of California, it is reported.

No man ever has to feel ashamed of the company he keeps out of.

GASOLINE AUTO ROW RETURN

records set up by Oldsmobile Four models, in climbing the Sierra Nevada mountains in high gear, and ascending the famous Mt. Diablo, carrying 18 passengers, in second gear, under official observation.

J. C. Pollock, manager of J. C. Pollock & company, Glendale distributor for Oldsmobile motor cars, in explaining the great power obtained by the Olds Four, attributes this force to the construction of the four-cylinder motor used.

"The engine of the Oldsmobile Four is of the admittedly superior 'long-stroke' type," says Pollock. "That is, the length of the stroke of the piston is considerably greater than the diameter of the cylinder bore. These dimensions are: Bore, 3 11-16 inches; stroke, 5 1-4 inches. The stroke of the engine is governed by the length of the crankshaft 'cheek,' or 'throw.' That is, the longer the throw of the shaft, the larger is the diameter of the arc described by the crankpin of the shaft, with a consequent increase in the distance traversed by the piston in the cylinder while the crankshaft completes one revolution.

"This type of engine gains its advantages largely because of the fact that the long crankshaft throw permits an increase in leverage upon the shaft as the connecting rod transmits to the crankpin the energy developed through the burning of gases in the explosion chamber above the piston. It is simply a modern application of the age-old principle of leverage and is one of the simplest of all problems encountered in the designing of a gas engine."

CHEVROLET LEADS SALES

"It is possible to build quality cars to sell at quantity prices," said C. L. Smith, local Chevrolet dealer, yesterday. He said:

"Chevrolet has proved this, and, as a result, has attained leadership of all standard equipped cars in volume of sales. Many thousands more Chevrolets are being sold today than any other make of quality car.

"This has been made possible only through an unusual combination of quality and low price. The Chevrolet Motor company, backed by the resources of the General Motors corporation, the world's largest producers of automotive equipment, has put into this car quality, materials and workmanship usually found only in cars selling for much more. But large quantity production has made is possible to market Chevrolet at prices which are the lowest in the quality field.

"The Chevrolet roadster is the car for young people. It has the snappy appearance and graceful lines that appeal to youth. It is comfortable, and has all the speed that one can safely use. Not only is the price within reach of the modest purse, but its cost of operation is the lowest.

RADIO BATTERY TIPS

M. A. Stone, manager of the local Prest-O-Lite service station, is a radio fan as well as a battery expert. He claims that many of the failures of radio stations and apparent weakness of the stations is due to a discharged battery. He says:

"Often after nightfall signals from distant stations 'swing' badly or vary in intensity from one moment to the next.

"They may gradually become weaker and even fade out entirely, only to reappear with varying intensity.

"This phenomena is known as 'fading' or 'swinging' of signals and is believed to be due to certain conditions of the atmosphere. Stations within reliable daylight range are seldom or never found to fade to any great extent.

"When signals from stations that can be heard fade or swing simultaneously, look to your receiving set.

"The cause is frequently an exhausted filament or plate battery. The condition of the 'A' battery is indicated by the filament brilliancy obtainable, or by the reading on a hydrometer.

"The 'B' (plate) battery units are tested by means of a voltmeter and should be replaced if the voltage per unit does not come within one volt of the normal value.

"An irregular hissing or frying noise is often another indication of an exhausted 'B' battery. Watch for it."

BUYS THIRD OAKLAND

Frank E. Dixon, purchasing agent for the city of Glendale, has just bought a brand new Oakland car of the 6-44 touring model, with disc wheels 'n everything. The fact that he has purchased an Oakland does not mean so much as does the fact that this is the third Oakland owned by Mr. Dixon.

Max L. Green of the Oakland agency, said yesterday:

"The fact that Mr. Dixon, after owning two Oaklands, has just purchased his third, proves that our car appeals to the man who appreciates service, plus economy, plus appearance. Those three features of the Oakland are its three best selling points."

He said that there are many people owning Oaklands in this city who have owned three and four of them. They would not consider any other make of car. Mr. Green said: "It is not a matter of selling cars with us at present. Our greatest difficulty lies in getting the automobiles to deliver after we have sold them."

He said that the railroad strike delayed shipments considerably. The settlement of the strike and the resuming of regular schedules will help the local agency in securing car for immediate delivery.

EXIDE BUSY SEASON

"Our real busy season will start next month when the vacationists start returning from their summer automobile tours," said H. M. Parker, of the Autoelectric service station, dealers and service station for the Exide battery, yesterday.

Mr. Parker said that at the end of the summer season practically every automobile owner has his battery recharged and overhauled. It is then that the charging tables are filled all the time and employes of the station are forced to work overtime.

The average owner of a car has his battery tested before leaving on a vacation tour, and does not pay any further attention to it until he returns. If he is careful and interested in prolonging the life of his battery, the owner will bring the battery into the service station upon his return from summer touring, and have it thoroughly overhauled.

The testing of a battery at frequent intervals prolongs the life of a battery considerably. It may be that the battery only requires a test. It may be in good condition, but have the test made. A test in time saves days on the charging table.

BIG TIRE STOCK IN GLENDALE

Six Hundred of All Sizes in Stock at Auto Tire Company

Between 600 and 700 tires of all sizes comprise one of the largest tire stocks in Glendale. This large stock is carried by the Automobile Tire company of South Brand boulevard.

The local branch of the company is in charge of C. H. Montgomery, who says that business is unusually good for this time of year. The large stock is so arranged in the salesroom of the company that every tire can be seen by the customer. They are sorted according to sizes, and placed in the racks.

One side of the salesroom has tires of the larger sizes stacked in piles of eight and ten tires. Every make of tire is represented by the establishment. Mr. Montgomery said yesterday:

"Many people think that because we sell tires at lower than the market prices that we are selling seconds. This is not so. There are very few second tires sold in our chain stores. We sell below the marke price because, through our chain system, we are enabled to purchase a large quantity of tires at better prices than can be secured by the average jobber."

TIRES ARE CHEAPER

"Twelve years ago, the automobile owner paid approximately twice as much for a tire as he does now," said J. W. Slater, the local Goodyear dealer, with a service station at 110 West Harvard street, yesterday.

"Are you skeptical? Well, run your doubting eyes over these two price lists, showing the comparative costs of four of the most popular tire sizes in 1910 and 1922:

| | 1910 | 1922 |
|---|---|---|
| 30x3 | $23.40 | $ 9.20 |
| 30x3½ | 21.30 | 10.65 |
| 33x4 | 51.85 | 25.25 |
| 35x5 | 89.95 | 41.05 |

"This price reduction is only the half of it. There's double the mileage also in the tire of today, and that's being conservative. I know of no other factor in the economical operation of an automobile that represents greater value than the present day tire, costing half as much to give ice.
